The 1995 Campus Campaign is underway! The annual fund drive was launched at a reception following Ohio State's first campus-wide Vision & Implementation Day, March 31. Ohio State Lima faculty and staff are bidding to maintain their first place ranking in the university-wide Campus Campaign for the third year in a row. In 1994 OSU-Lima raised $16,393 with 89 percent participation. They're out to get us," said Judy Von Blon member of OSU-Lima's Campus Campaign Volunteer Committee, referring to increased competition from other schools and departments within the university.

Two years ago, the Lima Campus shot from last to first place in the campaign, thanks to an invigorated sense of commitment expressed by faculty and staff and the persistent gentle persuasion of its Director of Development and Alumni Relations, Carla Churchill. Carla retired this year and the campaign is being handled by a volunteer committee. "They know we're vulnerable and they're out to get us," said Von Blon.

Each year, members of the campus are assigned to fund raising teams. The teams compete for percent participation and largest dollar amount pledged. Last year's teams were named after famous philanthropists. This year team names are inspired by endangered animals including: African Elephants, American Bisons, Bald Eagles, Black Rhinoceros', Green Sea Turtles, Humpback Whales, Koala Bears, Pandas, Siverback Gorillas, Snow Leopards, and the Walrus.

Violet Meek, dean and director is confident we can do it. "Three years and we'll retire the trophy." She commented in her remarks at the opening reception. Lima will go to the community later this year in its first-ever Capital Campaign. "If we can show the community that we believe in ourselves... then they will believe in us too. For Lima campus faculty and staff to be Number 1 three years in a row is a powerful statement and says a lot about the integrity of our people," she said.

Celebrating Ten Years of Giving is the theme for this year, representing the tenth anniversary of the highly successful internal university fund-raising drive. Watch for details!

President Visits for Business Industry Roundtables

The Ohio State University President, Dr. E. Gordon Gee will be in West Central Ohio for a day of meetings with business and community leaders, Wednesday, April 5, 1995. The purpose of the trip is to describe university business-related activities and solicit feedback from local business leaders. The three-city tour will include Van Wert, Findlay and Kenton. Dr. Gee will start the visit in Van Wert where he will be met by Ohio State Lima Trustee, George Brooks, Vice President of Bank One. From there he will visit Findlay and spend time with representatives of the Findlay Chamber of Commerce. Our Findlay-based Trustees, Jed Osborn, President of Ball Metal and Larry Ward, President, Polywood Entrprises will escort him. The President wraps up the day in Kenton where he will be hosted by OSU-Lima Trustee and prominent farmer, Howard Watkins. Dr. Gee has had several such meetings with Lima representatives in recent times and is expected back in Lima later in the year.

DOOKIE AND OSU CAMPUS CAMPAIGN CELEBRATE 10 YEARS!

Like the Campus Campaign, Q. Dookie (Associate Professor, Agronomy) enters his second decade this year. Like all of us, he's changed — the "Dook" looks slimmer and happier, but he's still a strong supporter of the Campus Campaign. Join him!

BUCKEYE

12th Annual Secretarial Seminar

In conjunction with Professional Secretaries Week (April 24-28), The Ohio State University at Lima and the West Central Ohio Regional Development Board will be conducting the 12th Annual Secretarial Seminar on April 26th at the Lima Best Western Hotel. This year's seminar topic is "But, You Just Aren't Listening to Me!" and will deal with poor listening skills that lead to misunderstandings, loss of sales, customers, and profits. Participants will learn to listen analytically, solve problems, and build personal relations through good listening skills; develop skills in active listening, recognize barriers to effective listening, identify situations in which listening is important, gain awareness of how to eliminate hasty judgements while listening, and learn to listen for better understanding.

The keynote address will be presented by Linda D. Swink, a graduate of the University of Texas at El Paso. She is the author of Speak with Power and Grace: A Woman's Guide to Public Speaking and has had many articles on the various aspects of communication published in national newspapers and magazines. The cost is $29 which includes lunch and all the handouts. During lunch, there will be a fashion show of office wardrobe, children's clothes, and bathing suits sponsored through OSU-Lima, Fashion Bug, and Body Genics. For more information, contact the office of Continuing Education at (419) 221-1641 ext. 240.
